VOICEOVER — FOR — LINGUISTS

Learn to use your voice as a business tool

"First-hand experience from a real professional!"

"An informative workshop delivered with enthusiasm and passion."

THE WORKSHOP

Are you working as a freelancer within the translation industry and you'd like to expand your range of competencies?

Do you think that using your voice as a business tool would bring more satisfaction to your professional career? Voiceover could be the answer you are looking for!

The workshops tend to be composed of three parts:

- 1 - A short introduction about translating the spoken word as opposed to the written word
- 2 - Sight-reading a short text in front of the microphone in your mother tongue
- 3 - Reading a prepared script to video that you will have translated yourself

The workshop will be given to a group of 4 to 7 people to allow the trainer to give you his undivided attention!

The trainer, Daniel Pagoon, is a professional, long-established, voiceover artist with over 30 years of experience and is also an accomplished trainer. His career in voiceovers began with the BBC World Service, where he trained to become a translator and broadcaster, practising every day for five years. He has recorded narration for documentaries, corporate videos, training material and language courses. These were mainly in French but also in English, Italian, German and even Spanish, which he started to learn at evening class!
